YOUNG ISRAEL OF WEST HARTFORD

Rabbi's Corner

This weekend we have two programs happening and I hope you will be able to attend them:

As you know we will be hosting our Scholars in Residence Rabbi Yosef Gavriel and Dr. Shani Bechhofer. They are the first of three couples that will be coming as part of the "The Congregation Ados Israel Couple Based Torah Study and Community Involvement Program At Young Israel of West Hartford." This program is intended to introduce our community to couples with different backgrounds, life experiences, and professional vantage points who exemplify the unprecedented learning achievements open to both men and women in today's Modern Orthodox world.

Although I don't know the Bechhofers so well, I think very highly of them. They are well accomplished and well thought of in the YU world. They will be visiting HHNE on Friday morning, as well as helping me with some questions about possible Eruv expansion projects in the afternoon. Even in their short time here they will be making such an impact on different parts of our community and that is a testament to the type of people that they are. See the flyer to get more details of their lectures and topics etc...It should be a wonderful introduction to the Yamim Noraim and an inspiration to all of us.

The learning continues....on Saturday night! We will be joining the other Orthodox shuls in the area for a little music, for a joint learning program, and for Selichot at Agudas Achim. The program starts at 10:00pm and you can pick from a very wide variety of classes on different topics and given by different rabbis of the community. Yasher Koach to Rabbi Ari Weiss for putting it together. The program will be followed by Selichot at 11:30pm. There will be an additional Selichot at 12:40am (halachic midnight) at YIH on Troutbrook. I attended that late Selichot last year and it was incredibly moving to be there in the middle of the night with very tight knit group and beautiful melodies etc... What a way to start off the season of Yamim Noraim and of Teshuva! I would by Rav David Silverberg (www.vbm-torah.org)

In the second verse in the haftara of Shabbat Parashat Nitzavim-Vayelekh, the final of the seven haftarot of consolation following Tisha B'Av, the prophet draws an analogy between Am Yisrael's salvation and the growth of vegetation. He declares, "For as the earth brings forth her growth and a garden makes the seed shoot up, so the Lord God will make righteousness and renown shoot up in the presence of all the nations" (Yeshayahu 61:11). What underlies this comparison? To what quality of Am Yisrael's "righteousness and renown" does the prophet refer when he compares them to plants?

Dr. Mendel Hirsch (son of Rav Shimshon Refael Hirsch), in his work on the haftarot (much of which is based upon the commentaries of his father), explains this verse as underscoring the cause-and-effect relationship between Benei Yisrael's "righteousness" and "renown." Just as the laws of nature dictate that a seed produces a plant, so will it become clear that "righteousness" automatically yields "renown." In the current state of affairs, justness, honesty, integrity and piety generally do not earn one fame and prestige, certainly not to the same extent as do wealth and power. The standards by which people are assessed reflect the misplaced priorities of mankind; the emphasis placed on material possessions and power result in the widespread acclaim for the wealthy and mighty, rather than for the moral and just. In the future, mankind will come to honor and respect piety and righteousness; as if by the laws of nature, "righteousness" will automatically result in "renown."

Later in this same prophecy, Yeshayahu proclaims, "Nations shall see your righteousness, and every king your majesty" (62:2). The prophet foresees the day when rather than being the objects of ridicule for our customs and rituals, rather than enduring the derision and scorn of other peoples for our uncompromising devotion to our faith, the justness of our beliefs and wisdom of our laws will become apparent. If today it is difficult to see how the seeds of "righteousness" yield the sprouts of "renown," the times foreseen by Yeshayahu are characterized by universal recognition of the supreme stature of "righteousness," such that the righteous will be extolled, while specifically the wicked will be condemned, pursued, and persecuted.

really encourage you to try it.

As Rosh Hashanna approaches I would like to make a plug for people (men and women) to make an extra effort to come to daily minyan and selichot. It is a special time of year and coming to shul in the morning or evening shows a real push towards Hashem. Even if you don't come the rest of the year – just try it. You will be welcomed in and it would certainly help to set the tone for all of us about these “days of awe”. Thanks.

SHABBAT SHUVA DRASHA

“The Trial of Josef K. & Yona’s Debate with G-d”

This class will be dedicated to understanding some essential questions about the book of Jonah and why we read it on the afternoon of Yom Kippur. By answering these questions we will reveal a fundamental truth about the nature of Divine Judgment and the period of Yamim Noraim.

Join us as we carry on the time-honored tradition of holding a special thought provoking study session on Shabbat afternoon between Rosh Hashanna and Yom Kippur.
